

Specification of subjects in Master's degree studies studies

Subject code: MIII21105/r
Study program: Forestry
Type and level of studies: Master's degree studies
Subject name: Collection and processing of non-wood forest products
Teacher (s): Milorad Danilović, DSc ; Slavica Antić
Subject type: elective
ECTS: 6
Condition: No condition
Subject aim: To provide the necessary theoretical, practical and other professional knowledge on the issue of the use of non-wood forest products. In addition, the objective of the subject is to promote other (non-wood) forest products, which are very important in human nutrition and for the feeding of livestock or game, in the pharmaceutical or chemical industry, in construction, as a raw material in various types of craft production, plant production, etc.
Subject outcomes: Students need to acquire knowledge about a range of products that can be expected from the forest, product classification, their market forms and knowledge of the significance of each product.