

Specification of subjects in Master's degree studies studies

Subject code: MIII71105/B
Study program: Forestry
Type and level of studies: Master's degree study program
Subject name: Management of protected natural areas
Teacher (s): Dragan Nonić, DSc;
Subject type: elective
ECTS: 6
Condition: That this student had passed the exam Organization and management of forestry enterprises.
Subject aim: Students are provided with the necessary organizational, managerial and other professional knowledge in the field of management of protected natural resources and management of institutions in the field of forestry and nature protection. In addition, the objective of the course is to introduce students to the strategic, legislative and institutional frameworks of forestry and nature protection at the level of the EU and the Western Balkans.
Subject outcomes: Students acquire knowledge that enables them to solve tasks and problems in the field of management of protected natural resources. Through practical training, students will master the application of basic management methods and principles of organizing institutions and enterprises in forestry and nature protection.