

Specification of subjects in Master's degree studies studies

Subject code: MIII41104/a
Study program: Forestry
Type and level of studies: Master's degree study program – Module: Silviculture
Subject name: Silviculture of special-purpose forests
Teacher (s): Milun R. Krstić, DSc
Subject type: elective
ECTS: 6
Condition:
Subject aim: To introduce students to the categorization of special-purpose forests (in extremely unfavorable site conditions, of protective forests and protected forests and forests of special importance), to the significance of these forests, their shares in Serbia and the related legislation, to natural processes taking place in virgin forests and forest reserves, and to the need for biodiversity protection.
Subject outcomes: Training for the application of methods for defining the state, characteristics, silvicultural needs, the application of the methods of regeneration and tending of special-purpose forests, of the most important and most frequent species of trees in this region, according to the principles of close-to-nature silviculture, and to the implementation of these measures in order to increase stability and sustainability.